of which was to induce the call of a convention of the State. At this meeting, "Wright denounced the Union men, declared himself with the South in this rebellious movement, and when reminded that he held an office under the Government of the United States, said, 'd—n the office, I can resign it.'"

The testimony of another witness, Joseph Gregory, of Maryland, is confirmatory of this statement. A third, James Bowen, charges Wright with endeavoring to persuade him to send his sons to the rebel army, and to a fourth witness, P. K. Storms, employed at the Patent Office, Wright denounced the war as unjust, and said that the South could not be subdued, but that he would be loyal as long as Maryland

MARVIN SCHECKLES.

The evidence against Marvin Scheckles, is that of James Williams, a watchman in the Treasury Department, who testifies that Sheckles was a member of the National Rifles, and that when the company was mustered into the merrice of the Government he resigned. "He afterward told me," says the witness, "that he afterward told me," says the witness, " that he that of James Williams, a watchman in the Treasury Department, who testifies that Sheek-les was a member of the National Rifes, and that when the company was mustered into the service of the Government he resigned. "He afterward told me," says the witness, "that he was sorry he resigned, because he had better comsined in order to break up the company." The witness had no doubt that "Scheckles's sympathies were strongly against the United Lates Government and with the rebels. His larsociations and affiliations have been and are with that class of men in this city."

w. w. JACOBS.

1. W. Fitch, a clerk in the Census Bureau, testifics that W. W. Jacobs was appointed to acturkishly in some branch of the War Department about the list of September, having been removed from the Interior. He told witness that "it he had known that he would be turned out he could have got an office in the Government of the Southern Confederacy — but that it was then too late."

MOSES B. GOODWIN. Richard M. Ross, a cierk in the Land Office, centiles that he had often heard Goodwin express strong sympathies with the South, and when accured of being a Secessimist, he did not deay it. He is the brother of the New Hampshire editor, whose office was recently vocacy of secession.

Altred B. Mullett, a clerk in the Treasury Department, testifies that Moses B. Goodwin bearded at the same house with him, and that Goodwin told me repeatedly that all our troubles had been brought upon the country by the Black Republican Abolition party. He told me that the officers who had left the service of the United States and taken up arms against the Government were just as honorable men as those who remained true to the Government.

This is doubtless a great mistake. Mr Godwin bus but one brother, and is not and never has been an editor of a paper, but is Unt Lieutenant in the Sixteenth Infantry regular army. He is stationed at Galena, and is known as an all lient and gallant officer. As to Mr. Goodwin, he was a well-known Henry Cluy Whig. - then a Republican, and as regular currespondent of the leading State paper of New Hampsh're, he has never falled to uphold he Union, and to condemn secessionism. No man wild suppose that the writer of those letters was tinetured with rebellious sentiments, or had in the slightest degree, any Southern prolighties. - ED. REPUBLICAN.]

The witness John Mountry states that Cad-man boards with bim, and that "he is an out and out secessionist. Last fall and winter, and during the spring and summer, he was very violent and bitter in his expressions against the Government and the North, and in favor of the rebelas. He claimed Jefferson Davis for his friend, and said that if he was turned out here he could get a better office under the Confed-crate Government.

JOHN GOULD The first witness testifies that Mr. Gould "is decidedly opposed to the use of force on the part of the Government to maintain the Union, and his conversalions show that his sympathies are with the South in this rebellion." Another witness testifies to the same purport. A. T. C. CLARK.

the first witness, Jonathan Forrest, testifies that Mr. Clark is "a rabid secessionist," and local red that " if the South attacked this city Jeei, red that "if the South attacked this city he would not take up arms against the South," and even if his house should be destroyed. The isolinousy of the other witness, Charles Forrest, he to the same effect, and that "he often said" to the witness, "that he hoped Jeff. Davis and his army would come here, and murder every damest Black Republican." Such a man should not be merely a subject of removal from public employment, but of immediate arrest and involvement.

Philadelphia, he feels himself fully competent to discharge his duty in every case which may be presented to his care.

Dr. L. has secured the right to use the newl improvement, patented by Drs. A. M. & J. L. Assay, of Philadelphia, for fastening artificial teeth to gold, silver, or platina plates, which precludes the possibility of saliva or foreign malerials secreting between them, at the same time rendering the operation more firm, natural, and of more utility to the patient, dispening with the ordinary modes of fastening, by rivet ing or soldering, which ee often causes the appringing of plates, and consequently an imperfect adaptation to the month.

He would respectfully invite the public to his office to examine this improvement. To do so is to be convinced of its superiority over all methods heretofore used.

The destal profession is also invited to call and
